RAC is establishing a new role for a Healthcare Tariff & Policy Analyst who will be responsible for developing and calculating tariffs for the healthcare sector while drafting policies and regulations to ensure financial sustainability. If you have a background in health economics, business economics, or accounting, this is your opportunity to contribute to the future of healthcare pricing and market regulation on the island.

KEY RESPONSIBILITIES

- Develop and implement tariff models for healthcare services.
- Conduct cost analyses to ensure fair and sustainable pricing.
- Draft data-driven policy documents and regulations related to the healthcare sector.
- Ensure regulatory compliance with healthcare finance laws.
- Provide expert guidance to healthcare providers, government bodies, and financial stakeholders.

WHAT WE ARE LOOKING FOR

- Master's degree in Health Economics, Business Economics, or Accounting.
- 5+ years of experience in healthcare finance, tariff calculation, or policy development.
- Strong knowledge of economic modeling, financial forecasting, and pricing analysis.
- Experience in writing regulatory policies and governance frameworks.
- Excellent analytical and stakeholder management skills.
